Overview

The Order of Newfoundland and Labrador represents the most prestigious recognition awarded by the Province. The purpose of the Order is to acknowledge individuals who have exhibited excellence and accomplishment in any area contributing significantly to the benefit of Newfoundland and Labrador and its citizens. The inaugural investiture was held in 2004.

Any Canadian citizen who is a current or former long-term resident of Newfoundland and Labrador is eligible for nomination to the Order. The following individuals are not eligible to receive the Order: a member of the Legislative Assembly of a province, including the House of Assembly; a member of the Senate or House of Commons; a member of a municipal council or local service district committee; a member of an assembly or a local government established under a land claims agreement; a member of a band council established in accordance with the Indian Act (Canada); and a judge of a court. Only individuals are eligible for nomination; organizations, groups, and couples are excluded. The Order is not normally bestowed posthumously.

An individual who is not a Canadian citizen or current or former long-term resident of the province, but who has demonstrated excellence in their field of endeavour, and who has benefited the province in an outstanding manner, may be nominated as a honorary member.
